Camagüey, Apr 20.- Different alternatives have been evaluated in Camagüey to ensure the distribution of food product modules to the population in a manner regulated by the supply book.

The measure adopted by the Provincial Defense Council aims to prevent hoarding and makes offers available to as many people as possible in the midst of the current health contingency.

In an appearance before the local media, the provincial head of the food subgroup, Daniel Iglesias, said that the staggered distribution began in fifteen commercial areas in the city of Camagüey that make up more than 116,300 family centers.

Among the offers, products made by the dairy, meat and fishing companies are included, while other options prepared by the Alimentaria and the Confectionery are sold freely and the takeaway food is kept in the gastronomic units.

See the profile on Facebook of the Provincial Government the information offered by the head of the Food Group of the Provincial Defense Council, Daniel Iglesias Guzmán.
